

The Sunflower Trail

“Crowns of beauty instead of ashes”

In order to bring a little bit of joy into our neighbours lives and make one another smile, why not plant sunflowers along your borders, placing them where the most people will be able to enjoy them. If you can't plant, paint pictures of sunflowers and place them in your windows. You might like to write the names of loved ones who have died from this terrible virus in the centre. This summer, let's help each other have something to smile about. How amazing it would be, to follow this trail of joy around our towns and villages.

Attached is a blank sunflower is you would like one.
