Mirror - Jeannie Baker

<https://classroom.thenational.academy/lessons/to-introduce-the-text-and-author-6ww32e>

Find Add and subtract any pair of 2-digit numbers and use the same strategies to add and subtract multiples of 10. Then:

- 1. Follow the PowerPoint on Google Classroom or in your pack*
- 2. Work through the activity, challenge yourself to complete the challenge!*

History:

Read the information about Tudor Punishments - they were all very nasty, some were worse than others! I would like you to create a fact file of your own about Tudor Punishments ranking them from the worst to the not so bad (if there was one!). You can include illustrations and explanations of what they were, how they worked and who was punished and why. I can't wait to read these so please if you can upload the work to Google Classroom or take a photo and send it to me at Y5Teacher@littleham.devon.sch.uk

Read the 3 poems, then choose one of them to learn and remember. You could even add actions or percussive accompaniment (clapping or tapping!). Perform your poem to someone at home, then think about this question - 'What sorts of poems are good to perform, and why?'

Music:

<https://www.bbc.co.uk/teach/school-radio/history-tudors-music/zm4gvk7>

Listen to the 8 pieces of Music - What do you think of them? What do you picture in your head when you hear them? Choose your favourite picture, listen to it carefully - what instruments can you hear? What can you picture in your head when you listen to it? Draw a picture of what you see in your head (remember we have used this method of showing our appreciation for music before when we worked on Ancient Egypt), remember to use colour and plenty of detail, you could even include the instruments that you can hear!

Mental Health:

Please follow the link to the school website and work through the PowerPoint/Activity you find there - this is also available on Google Classroom.

Acrostic Poems

<https://www.bbc.co.uk/bitesize/topics/z4mmn39/articles/ztdvw6f>

Watch the clips carefully. In an acrostic poem the first letter of each line spells a word when read downwards. However in a mesostic poem (which is another type of acrostic poem) the word is in a different place. Read A Sunny Day. Can you spot the word? Sunshine has been spelt downwards but this time each letter is in the middle of each line. By doing this it means that the poet can choose interesting vocabulary and imagery to paint a picture - this is a mesostic poem.

Choose a word from this list:

Snow

Rainbow

Dragon

Birthday

Thunder

Think about the word - what is it? How could you describe it? Write down your ideas and then try to write an acrostic poem or if you want to, challenge yourself a mesostic poem.

Here is my example of an acrostic poem:

*L*ighting up the pitch black night time sky

*I*n jagged streaks

*G*oing downwards rushing

*H*itting the ground striking hard

*T*hunder rumbles around

*N*othing moves outside

*I*nside people shelter like ants

*N*oticing the brilliant slashes in the night sky

*G*rateful to be safe indoors.

And a mesostic poem!

*R*unning around D wild and free

*D*igging in the Open ground

*E*ars flapping Grinning wide.

Please send your poems in either via Google Classroom,

Y5@Littleham.devon.sch.uk or keep it safe in your paper pack to return to school when you collect your next pack.
