

I built it a new house, one with an open roof where it could look up at the stars — a place where it could be safe to dream.

